The Audeh Group in Ukraine

In the course of our investigations, we have come to realize that AUDEH’s activities in Ukraine seemed a bit “off” compared to the development of its other businesses. So, we have tried to answer the fundamental question:

“What is ISSA AUDEH doing in Ukraine?”

In order to answer to that question we have started to collect several pieces of information but more could be done into that direction once we discuss the matter with the Client.

Phoenicia Trading Afro Asia Ltd

Miscellaneous

In the course of our investigations on the Group's activities in Ukraine, we found the resume of a certain MIRAN YOUSUF who apparently worked for CONSUMER TRADING COMPANY LTD. in Ukraine between June 2001 and December 2002.

According to the information he provides on his on-line resume (see: <http://miranyousuf.com/business_development_country_manager>), here is a brief description of his responsibilities: “To establish an importing, trading and Distribution Company in Ukraine with a national distribution network representing the full product portfolio, on exclusive basis, of renowned international food brands such as: Heinz, Nabisco, United Biscuits, Ritter Sport, Storck, Bel, Christinnen Brunnen, Kotanyi, Rhinos Energy Drink, Cafe Pele”.

Here are some of his claimed accomplishments that bring some information:

Operations Setup: recruited, trained, departmentalized and managed 65 adept local staff, administered and supervised Sales Training Programs, Trade & Consumer Programs as well as Sales Commission Scheme.

Distribution Network Design: Lead the implementation of the then state-of-the-art field sales ordering and processing system using portable handheld devices in combination with GPS tracking to improve sales-force efficiency, measure distribution rate. Exceeded listing target for 1st Trimester of business operations by listing over 80% of the Portfolio with 3,000 outlets nationwide. This number grew over 300% to 10,000 outlets by end of FY.

He even displayed a distribution flow chart of the company, which we have displayed here after even if, in itself, it doesn't bring much information.

The Audeh family

Generalities

ISSA N. AUDEH is a businessman of Jordanian origin. In the 1980s, ISSA AUDEH was an employee of R.J.REYNOLDS TOBACCO INTERNATIONAL, INC. and served as Regional Director, Middle East/Near East Region for RJR. Around the late 1980s or early 1990s, ISSA AUDEH set up a group of companies located in Cyprus, including as just explained AUDEH TRADING & CONSULTANCY SERVICE and IBCS TRADING AND DISTRIBUTION COMPANY LIMITED (“IBCS”).

ISSA N. AUDEH has two sons as mentioned on the AUDEH GROUP’s website (www.audeh-group.com <http://www.audeh-group.com>): BASSAM and SAAD, who work with him.

According to the results of our searches in the Arabic and international press, nothing negative and recently published was found on any of these three individuals (ISSA, SAAD and BASSAM).

BASSAM has studied at the Richmond University in London and is more reserved than his brother SAAD who is more open on the internet about his various activities. We know for example that he plays polo and races cars. He is also mentioned on the Web for having bought 265 cigars for 80,000€.

Searches in the UK

We found traces of the AUDEH family in the UK so we consulted the 2009 Electoral Roll's database and found the information displayed here under.

To start with, we found that four AUDEH “adults” of relevance to the objectives of the present mission were listed in the 2009 UK Electoral Roll:

BASSAM I AUDEH

Address as House in the Wood, Larch Avenue, Ascot, Berkshire, SL5 0AP 494435, 168014

Born on 24 June 1959

Married MARTINA M STUMPF in July 1987

They have four children together

Other occupants at that address:
MARTINA AUDEH (between 45 and 49 years old),
CHRISTOPHER I AUDEH (born December 1987), ANNABEL C AUDEH (born November 1989) and most likely

Here on the right, we have displayed the picture of BASSAM as available on his facebook profile.

SAAD I AUDEH

Address as Old Beams, Sturt Green, Holyport, Maidenhead, Berkshire, SL6 2JF 488537, 177535 (which is the address of the company WREN TRADING LIMITED, see further down in the text)

Born on 28 May 1966

Married RACHAEL E. CONNETT in September 2002

Confidential PC
They have one child together: TRISTIAN-LUKE SAAD AUDEH born on April 2003

CAROLINE AUDEH-CHBAT (ISSA’s daughter?)

Blue cedars, 19 Woodlands Ride, South Ascot, Berkshire, SL5 9HP 492082, 167394

Born on 11 July 1962

Married NAZIH H. CHBAT in December 1992

They have two children together: SEBASTIAN A CHBAT (born October 1994) and STEPHANIE L CHBAT (born January 1996)

DOLLY AUDEH

17 Woodlands Ride, Ascot, Berkshire, SL5 9HP492082, 167394

Age guide: 65+ (Electoral Roll 2009)

DOLLY AUDEH is most likely the wife of ISSA AUDEH. This has been confirmed by several references across the internet like for example the following:

“...it was an Antiochian Church dedicated to St. Ignatios Theophorus of Antioch. After the service we made ourselves known and were treated very hospitably and invited to take coffee. We learned that the building of the church had been made possible by the generosity of Mr. and Mrs Issa, Dolly Audeh and family...”

Remark about Michael Saba

The aforementioned Church is located in Cyprus. The fact that the church was built thanks to the generosity of the AUDEH family is also confirmed by this small video made about the church:

It is important to note that the abstract displayed above comes from a document describing a visit in Cyprus in which we can also read: “Fr MICHAEL SABA presented us with an icon from Mt. Athos of the Theotokos.” From the text, it would appear that Father SABA is linked with the church presented as having been sponsored by the AUDEH family.

According to an article published in 2006 in the newspaper Al Bawaba (www.albawaba.com <http://www.albawaba.com>), Father MICHAEL SABA is also a lecturer on educational affairs. What is surprising is that according to the information presented on the website of the St. Mary Antiochian Orthodox Church (<http://www.stmaryorthodox.com>), Father MICHAEL SABA’s first recorded Baptism was in March 1904...which makes him rather old.
SABA is a rather common family name in Cyprus but it was relevant to make the above parenthesis on this Father since, according to information found on Facebook, AUDEH’s sons are in relation with two “SABA” who themselves are in relation with many other people. This may sound a bit confusing at this point but we are being more specific in the chapter dedicated to the potential link between the AUDEH and other families, link that we have not yet clearly established up to the date of the present report.

As we have seen previously in this report, MANOLLY DIMITRI SABA is the sole director of the company TRUTRADE HOLDING LIMITED, in fact the principal shareholder of the two main companies of the AUDEH GROUP: AUDEH TRADING & CONSULTANCY SERVICES LIMITED and I.B.C.S. TRADING & DISTRIBUTION CO LIMITED.

MANOLLY is also one of the two directors, the other being ISSA’s son SAAD, of another company of the AUDEH GROUP: TRUTRADE & CONSULTANCY SERVICES LIMITED also owned by TRUTRADE HOLDING LIMITED.

All the above to underline that MANOLLY DIMITRI SABA must be well aware of AUDEH’s business activities and the man must be trusted by ISSA for ISSA to give him these positions and his holding companies.

As we will see below several searches undertaken on the internet uncovered that the families AUDEH and SABA are true friends (if not relatives of some kind) and they have shared many happy moments together as shown on the numerous pictures available on the web.

Considering the role played by MANOLLY SABA in the structure of the AUDEH GROUP we have gathered more information about this family.

HANA KARAM is a writer and plenty of information about her and her family are available on her personal website (see: <http://www.hanakaram.net>). For example, we learn on that website that: she is married to MANOLLY SABA and mother of two boys and a girl, she obtained her degree from the University of Aleppo in Syria, she wrote several articles for newspapers and magazines in Kuwait, she headed the Human Resource Department in a trading company in Limassol (Cyprus) for 15 years and she founded an Arabic teaching school in Cyprus.

The most interesting is that they both have published numerous personal pictures on the website <http://community.webshots.com>. We have commented the most interesting ones in Annex II of the present report.

The website mostly show that the AUDEH and SABA families share some good time together as well as important family events like Christmas, birthdays and weddings. Considering the objective of the present mission, the most important picture is the following:

In the course of our investigation, we found a Memorandum of Understanding regarding the trade of tobacco products signed on 20 October 2004 in Cyprus by the Chief Customs Officer, Mr. DIMITRIOS HAJICOSTIS and the Director of JT INTERNATIONAL COMPANY (CYPRUS) LTD, Mr. FADOL PEKHAZIS, and the Vice President, Corporate Affairs of JT INTERNATIONAL S.A., Mr. ANDRE BENOIT.

The small text aims at further cooperation between the Department of Customs and Excise of Cyprus and JTI, for the prevention and suppression of illicit importation, exportation, movement and trade of tobacco products.

Cigarettes contraband and counterfeit

Despite our extensive searches in the international, specialized and Arabic press, we could not find any information that could lead us to believe that the AUDEH family has recently been involved in dubious commercial activities. Of course, public sources have their limit but the difference between the abundant literature on AUDEH’s grey activities ten years ago and the one available today is striking.

As it is well known to the Client, ISSA AUDEH has been reported to be involved in the smuggling of cigarettes into Iraq between March 1993 and December 1996.

As summary, we have displayed an abstract of a study (“The Nexus of Organized Crime and Terrorism: Two Case Studies in Cigarette Smuggling”) published in the spring of 2008 going over the roots of the relation between ISSA AUDEH and JTI. The Client might already know this abstract but we find it interesting to display it in the framework of the present report.

Others

In the course of our investigation, we found that ISSA AUDEH has been listed in 2001 as a donor to the American Foundation for Saint George Hospital. The Saint George Hospital is located in Beirut, Lebanon (see www.stgeorgehospital.org <http://www.stgeorgehospital.org>). In 2001, ISSA AUDEH apparently gave US$10,000 or more (benefactor sponsor) to the foundation. The hospital’s history is related with Lebanon’s Orthodox community.

According to the newsletters available on the hospital’s website, ISSA AUDEH also donated in 2000 to the foundation (if not the same amount, he is listed in the same category of donors).

Miscellaneous

JT International Company (Cyprus) Limited

In the course of our investigation, we found that a company JT INTERNATIONAL COMPANY (CYPRUS) LIMITED was registered in Cyprus under company number 34962. The company was registered on 2 March 1989.

According to the information obtained from the Cyprus Trade Register, the Director and Secretary of the company are respectively:

Confidential PC
Ziad Fawaz, Director, of Canadian nationality with contact address in Limassol, Cyprus

Stelios Triantafyllides, Secretary, of Cypriot nationality with contact address in Nicosia, Cyprus

The sole shareholder of the company is:

JT International Holding BV in The Netherlands with 855 shares of EUR 170.86 of value each

There are also two other "JT INTERNATIONAL" companies registered in Cyprus but we didn't gather any information on them at this point:

JT International (Consults) Limited (C 77060), registered on 16 February 1996

JT International (Cyprus) Limited (C 39562), registered on 29 March 1990

Abdel Hamid Damirji

In 1997, Mr. ABDEL HAMID DAMIRJI sued RJR's international unit and Mr. AUDEH's distributorship, IBCS Trading and Distribution Co, claiming that they were selling to his competitors despite the existence of an exclusive agreement.

Mr. DAMIRJI used to be the exclusive distributor of RJR in Baghdad.

The case of Mr. DAMIRJI is interesting because despite his revelations about RJ Reynolds' scheme to avoid the embargo on Iraq of the nineties, it provides interesting information on ISSA AUDEH's role in this business.

According to an article published on the website of CBS news on 12 February 2003, Mr. DAMIRJI built the business in Iraq entirely and created a market for RJR cigarettes in the country all by himself. According to Andy Kerman, a British lawyer representing DAMIRJI, he started importing RJR cigarettes in 1989. "And that went on until the Gulf War started," Kerman says.

After the Gulf War and the trade ban, importing goods into Iraq became a tricky business. So, DAMIRJI moved his distribution company to Turkey. And the cigarettes went from the U.S. to Spain to Cyprus to Turkey to Iraq. According to an investigator, who gathered the evidence for the lawsuit, the money from the sales in Baghdad moved back up the same exact route.

"They're acting in unison and the money comes from the consumer back up the chain, back to RJR," says Toal.

But RJR claims the money never reached its bank accounts, and that REYNOLDS executives in the United States didn't even know what RJR INTERNATIONAL was doing. Which is interesting, considering the fact that both the domestic company and the Swiss subsidiary were run out of the same building in Winston-Salem, North Carolina.
Kerman says in the article that RJR knew about it very well and was very pleased with DAMIRJI selling around 750 million cigarettes a month in Iraq. Three years after the president announced the trade ban, RJR INTERNATIONAL invited DAMIRJI for a visit to Winston-Salem.

According to the article, the investigative journalists tried to direct some of their questions to the RJR's international unit but in 1999 RJR INTERNATIONAL was sold to JAPAN TOBACCO, which now runs the business from Switzerland. In response to their questions, the new owners said that they would not discuss the ways in which the company operated when it was still under American ownership.

In less than three years, DAMIRJI says he bought over $200 million worth of RJR cigarettes and sold them in Iraq. But starting in 1995, he says RJR and IBCS TRADING in Cyprus (ISSA AUDEH) started to divert part of the Iraqi business to other distributors who had a very powerful, partner: UDAI HUSSEIN, SADDAM HUSSEIN's eldest son, who muscled in on the trade.

"He controlled the trade completely. All the Iraqi businessmen, all know that this is Udaï's area now, this is Udaï's field, nobody can come and put himself in, in a dangerous situation," says ABAS AL-JANABI in the article (he was UDAI's personal secretary, the man UDAI sent to collect his share of the profits from the illegal trade).

This lawsuit between RJR INTERNATIONAL and DAMIRJI is a very different lawsuit from the one the European community filed. DAMIRJI is simply looking for compensation for the very profitable business he lost. And he wasn't breaking any law. It is not illegal for an Iraqi businessman to move cigarettes from Turkey to Iraq. But that would not be the case if an American company was breaking the trade ban.

We have reproduced here below an abstract of an article published in The Wall St. Journal on October 30th, 2002:

In his affidavit in the Cyprus case, Mr. DAMIRJI says that with the full knowledge of R.J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO INTERNATIONAL, he set up a distribution network for the company's products in Baghdad in 1990. Business went well, Mr. DAMIRJI says, and in August of that year, when Iraq invaded Kuwait, Mr. DAMIRJI relocated his operations to Jordan. From there, he says in the affidavit, he continued to supply the Iraqi market "with stocks of RJR products obtained from RJR direct and sources to which RJR directed" him. Mr. DAMIRJI declined to comment for this story.

According to Mr. DAMIRJI, a number of RJR executives, including some at the company's headquarters in Winston-Salem, N.C., were aware of his activities and met with him in the U.S. and abroad. "What there's no question about is this: R.J. REYNOLDS in the U.S. was well aware of DAMIRJI's operations. So if they wish to say, 'We have no idea what was going on,' that horse will not run," says ANTHONY D. KERMAN, Mr. DAMIRJI's lawyer in London.

Mr. MARCUSS, the tobacco lawyer, declines to comment about Mr. DAMIRJI's activities. However, he says generally that RJR's international unit and JAPAN TOBACCO simply sold to a distributor who determined where to resell the company's goods. Mr. MARCUSS says: "The nature of the cigarette business is such that distributors typically act independently. They are independent businessmen."

In his view, only the last distributor in the chain selling into Iraq would need to get official permission.

Mr. DAMIRJI, who grew up in Iraq as a member of a prominent family, says in his affidavit that his shipments to Iraq quickly grew after he moved to Jordan. He says that in June 1991 alone, he ordered 50,000 "master cases" of products from RJR's international unit for Iraq -- half-a-billion cigarettes. Because his supplier in Cyprus couldn't fulfill such a large order, he says, the RJR unit directly transported 17,000 cases to him, filling seven airplanes. In a court filing, RJR's international unit doesn't dispute shipping such a huge quantity of cigarettes to Mr. DAMIRJI in Jordan, but the company claims not to know what happened thereafter.

In October 1992, Mr. DAMIRJI's affidavit says, the border between Iraq and Jordan closed to cigarette traffic, and he had to move his inventory and operations to Mersin, Turkey, a port city on the Mediterranean. Mr. DAMIRJI says that a consultant to R.J. REYNOLDS INTERNATIONAL named ISSA AUDEH, who was also a former executive of the unit, orally offered to make Mr. DAMIRJI the "sole and exclusive supplier and distributor of RJR products in Iraq" if Mr. DAMIRJI would establish secure warehousing facilities in Mersin.

Mr. Damirji says he built two warehouses in Mersin, at a total cost of $976,000, and began purchasing RJR cigarettes through a company that Mr. AUDEH set up in Cyprus in early 1993 called IBRS TRADING AND DISTRIBUTION CO. Until then, Mr. DAMIRJI says, Mr. AUDEH had arranged for him to purchase RJR products through another Cypriot distributor. In court filings, RJR's international unit denies knowing anything about Mr. DAMIRJI's exclusive agreement. In his court filings, Mr. AUDEH's company denies that there was any exclusive agreement.

At this point, Mr. DAMIRJI says, his business got even better. Between March 1993 and December 1996, he says, he purchased RJR cigarettes valued at more than $213 million. They were shipped to Iraq via a dangerous route across the Turkish border into northern Iraq. "During the period, Aspen was established as the premier brand in Iraq" through his sales efforts, Mr. DAMIRJI says, referring to a RJR brand.

Mr. DAMIRJI says RJR executives in Europe and the U.S. were fully aware of his activities. He says EDWARD TOUMA, then a R.J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO INTERNATIONAL vice president, visited him twice in Mersin and also met him in Baghdad, Amsterdam, Geneva and Cannes. Mr. DAMIRJI says he met with seven other RJR executives at various times.

In 1994, he says, RJR paid for him to attend a meeting of Middle East distributors in New York and at RJR's headquarters in Winston-Salem. The court file contains a copy of a 1995 RJR INTERNATIONAL magazine, called "RJR News," with photographs taken at that meeting that include Mr. DAMIRJI, and with an accompanying article written by Mr. TOUMA. Mr. TOUMA now works for JAPAN TOBACCO in Geneva; the company declined to make him available to comment.

C. STEPHEN HEARD JR., a New York attorney for R.J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO INTERNATIONAL and JAPAN TOBACCO, says that Mr. AUDEH, the former RJR international executive, invited Mr. DAMIRJI to the meeting but adds that "technically you could say he was RJR's guest."

In 1997, Mr. DAMIRJI sued RJR's international unit and Mr. AUDEH's distributorship, IBCS, claiming that they were selling to Mr. DAMIRJI's competitors. Mr. AUDEH's response to this claim provides an intriguing glimpse into how in some corners, at least, the fierce hatred between the Iraqis and the Kurds appears to have been set aside so both can reap the spoils of the tobacco trade.

Specifically, Mr. AUDEH, in a series of interviews, claimed that he couldn't continue selling cigarettes to Mr. DAMIRJI because of demands imposed on Mr. AUDEH by the Kurdish Democratic Party, or KDP, which controls the northern part of Iraq that borders Turkey. This is a crucial artery through which foreign cigarettes flow into Kurdish-controlled Northern Iraq. From there, local traders re-export the cigarettes to Iran and even to parts of Iraq controlled by Saddam Hussein.

In early 1997, the KDP set up a company called KANI, which was given a monopoly on all cigarette exports to the Kurdish-controlled area. The company collects a tax imposed by the KDP of $20 to $25 for every master case, or 10,000 cigarettes. Mr. AUDEH says KANI directed him to sell to a company that competes with Mr. DAMIRJI's. A KDP spokesman says KANI officials couldn't be reached for comment.

According to U.N. records, Japan Tobacco got approval to sell 401,000 master cases of Winston, Magna and Winchester -- more than five billion cigarettes -- to Kani, the Kurdish tobacco monopoly, via Mr. Audeh and a Turkish distributor.

We now try to get an update of the legal proceedings in Cyprus about the case initiated by Mr. Damirji but it will take a few more weeks before having new documents.
